

Mr. Jones and the
R. F. C. Devil

Jesse Jones, Texas poor boy who made millions on his own and then went on to distinguished public service as head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and Secretary of Commerce, lets loose an historic political blast in his Memoirs, published yesterday by the MacMillan company.

An Associated Press report on the book quotes Jones as saying that President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who fired him out of the administration in 1945, was a "total politician," and that Henry A. Wallace, who succeeded Jones as commerce secretary, was a "screwball."

Jones isn't friendly—but presumably he is telling it just as he saw it, a rich man invited into the politicians' den and who found out, as rich men have before, that it's easier to join the politicians than it is to control them. Of Roosevelt Jones wrote: Quote He had no intention of leaving the White House until voted out—or carried out.

Put the part of the Texan's commentary that bites most deeply into today's news is his report on the various attempts to "use" the R. F. C. for political purposes a decade and a half ago. Jones reports they were unsuccessful, in marked contrast to the scandals that have been disclosed in the current year.

Jones says the late President Roosevelt once tried to get him to buy the Empire State building in New York City in order to help out some Democratic political investors. And he says Mr. Roosevelt never forgave him when he refused to do it.

Mr. Jones asserts, in effect, that he met the R. F. C. devil but remained untempted. That is probably the literal truth. Mr. Jones is himself too wealthy to be tempted. But his Memoirs are a clear picture as to what the American people can expect if they go on permitting politicians to have access to federal tax money for credit purposes.

Terms Boycott Demand a UN Maneuver

Seattle, Oct. 16 (AP) — Republicans today considered demands for a government boycott of cheap-labor foreign goods and a protest against "concealed attempts" by the United Nations to govern American fisheries.

These proposals and others with a western tang were placed before an 11-state Republican regional conference called to work out voting strategy for the 1952 elections.

The resolutions committee, headed powers in the hands of appointed City, recommended that the party's national platform —

Advocate excluding foreign products of underpaid labor where it hurts American workmen and farmers;

Strongly deplore "concealed attempts" by the United Nations to exercise sovereignty over our fisheries and further manipulating them for political purposes;"

Oppose the valley authority method of river basin development because it would put almost unlimited powers in the hands of appointive officials;

Favor U.S. return to the gold standard;

Support immediate statehood for Hawaii and allowing Alaskans to elect the territorial governor, now appointed by Washington.

Conference delegates turned to the resolution after a heavy round of speech making theme to why the Democrats should be kicked out of office — and how.

"Let's cut out the game of retribution and fighting among ourselves," declared Governor Arthur B. Langlie of Washington.

He said the country just can't stand another four years under a Democratic regime. As for his own choice as the Republican candidate — "I'm for the man who can win next time."

There was a touch of harmony yesterday when western members of the Republican national committee voted confidence in the honesty and integrity of Chairman Guy Gabrielson.

Prime Minister of Pakistan Is Assassinated

London, Oct. 16 (AP) — Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan was assassinated today, the Pakistan high commissioner's office in London announced.

The prime minister was shot while addressing a crowded meeting at Rawalpindi in the wild northwest frontier region of the Indian subcontinent, not far from the border of disputed Kashmir.

The assassin fired two bullets into the chest of the 56-year-old Moslem premier. He was rushed to a hospital to have the bullets removed.

Liaquat Ali became prime minister in August, 1947, upon the death of Mohammed Ali Jinnah, founder of Pakistan. Liaquat had been Jinnah's foreign minister.

The prime minister arrived in Rawalpindi today for a six-day tour of the northwest frontier.

There was no indication, in first scanty reports, of the identity of the assassin.

Officials in neighboring India long have been aware that Extremists in Pakistan have been trying to push the government into a more forceful Kashmir policy. Last March a group of alleged plotters, headed by the Pakistani army chief of staff, was arrested and charged with attempting to overthrow Liaquat and make war on Indian forces in Kashmir.

Rawalpindi is in an undisciplined frontier area which is also the scene of many movements of tribesmen for autonomy.

Kashmir, predominantly Moslem in population, acceded to Hindu India after the partition of the subcontinent, because it was ruled by a Hindu maharajah at the time. Pakistan disputes India's claim and troops have been facing each other across a line of demarcation while the United Nations tried to settle the ominous quarrel.

As a matter of fact, the service station man is responsible for bringing a lot of business into our town. He is also our community's unofficial representative to the county at large.

As the Chamber of Commerce has pointed out, "A service station dealer is very often the first local man most out-of-town visitors meet, and he's the only one many people passing through town ever see. He is the person by whom these people form their first judgments of our town, and thanks to him, these impressions are usually good."

"Out-of-town visitors," the Chamber adds, "look to a service station dealer for information on local stores, hotels, amusements and services. His recommendations send a steady stream of customers to our local business. By his hard work, his integrity, and above all, the cheerful way he constantly renders service, he has won the respect of all who know him, and the confidence of those who meet him for the first time."

Indeed, the men who operate our service stations play a key role in the community life of Hope. For residents and visitors alike, they provide a vital ingredient to our way of life. In fact, next to food, clothing and shelter, transportation stands at the top of the daily requirements of the average American family. Service stations, in a real sense, are the hubs around which countless cities and communities like ours revolve. And the men who operate them are respected business men and responsible citizens, with many of them active in various organizations and deeply interested in our social welfare.

This week, special tribute is being paid to the service station dealers of America. We salute the service station operators of Hope for the vital role they play in the welfare of our community.

The note berated Norway for joining the Atlantic pact. It said that the Norwegians had assured Russia in a note on Feb. 15, 1920, that they never would concurred in a policy aggressive to the Soviet Union and never would permit Norwegian territory to be used for such purposes.

The Soviets were particularly sharp in their references to the status of Spitzbergen, which lies midway between the north pole and the northern tip of Norway, and Bear Island, another 140 miles to the south.

The islands represent the last western islands on the Arctic approaches to the Soviet Union. From Alaska to Spitzbergen it is only 2,000 miles across the polar regions, and from Spitzbergen to London, 1,500 miles.

The 1920 treaty prohibits use of the Spitzbergen group forever for war-like purposes and bans any fortifications or garrisoning. However they are open to exploitation by all nations commercially under Norwegian supervision, and Russia operates three coal mines on the island.

In its new note to the Norwegians, the Soviet government said:

"The Soviet government draws military purposes by the command the attention of the Norwegian government to the fact that utilization of Spitzbergen and Bear Islands for the N.A.T.O. would constitute a violation of the status of these islands . . . and would damage the special interest of the Soviet Union and its security, to which fact the Soviet government cannot remain indifferent."

The two men were arrested near Glenwood, Ark., a few hours after Gross escaped from the men in Hope, Ark. They were driving a Black and White cab at the time of the arrest.

Quick Action Sought to Clear Tax Measure

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP) — Administration leaders signaled for quick one-two action by the house and senate today to clear a $5,742,000 tax increase to President Truman.

Final approval was taken for granted in both houses, although Republican opponents of the tax boost were ready to make a motion — if only for the record — to return the bill to a joint conference committee which worked out the final draft. The legislation at this stage is not subject to amendment from the floor.

Democratic Leader McFarland (Ariz.) told the senate to be ready to take up the bill as soon as house action was completed.

In the house, Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts announced he would vote against it as "the most reckless spending spree" in history.

The pro-government Cairo newspaper Al Balagh, calling the Ismailia situation "tense and dangerous," said the demonstrators there were youths and workers who taking offense at British trucks attacked and set the trucks ablaze.

The newspaper also said the crowd set fire to some equipment in the British camps, but that Egyptian police and British military police crushed the riot.

The newspaper Al Misri reported that the crowd set fire to the canteen and that "police assisted in the looting."

The CIO, meanwhile, called on the senate and house to reject the measure and send it back to the conference committee. In letters sent to congressional leaders, the labor organization contended that the bill:

(1) Increases taxes and low and middle income groups by about 11-3/4 per cent and those of millionaires by only 1-1/2 per cent; (2) imposes a hardship on low and middle income families by boosting excise taxes; (3) provides an insufficient increase in corporation taxes.

The CIO said it believes taxes should be raised by the $10,000,000 the President asked. Its letter, signed by Nathan E. Cowan of the CIO legislative department, said it would urge Mr. Truman to veto the bill if congress okays it.

The bill, second in size only to the first of two previous post-Korea tax boosts, calls for an increase of $2,333,000,000 in individual income taxes, $2,195,000,000 more in corporation taxes, and an additional $1,204,000,000 in excise (sales) taxes over a full year's operation. However, some miscellaneous provisions of the bill will result in revenue losses, cutting the net increase

Iran to Ban Latest Offer by British

New York, Oct. 16 (AP) — An Iranian spokesman said today Iran would reject the latest British proposal for U. N. action to settle the British-Iranian oil dispute.

Hossein Fatemi, deputy premier and spokesman, said a conference Iran would return to participate in may further security council discussions if the council adopted the British confirming the council's recommendation over the dispute.

The question comes up for further debate this afternoon at Pleniponary Meeting. At that time, Iran's aged and ailing Premier Mohammad Mosaddegh will state his views officially on the British resolution. The proposal merely called upon the two parties to the dispute to seek a settlement through direct negotiations and to refrain from any action which might aggravate the situation.

Iran contends the "matter is an internal question and therefore not within the jurisdiction of the U. N."

Fatemi repeated earlier statements that the Iranian government still is willing to negotiate with the British on two questions:

Compensation for a British investment in the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil company and the possible purchase of oil by Britain.

The Iranian premier said his first appearance before a plenary session yesterday, he spoke for about 15 minutes in forceful, emphatic English before turning over both sides the burden of his four-hour argument, that Britain has exploited the south Iran oil fields. And that the oil dispute is a question of the security council.

At the crowded chamber and the American television audience, Mosaddegh displayed none of the emotional outbursts which characterized his speeches at home. He read his prepared statement slowly and calmly. There was not a tear, not a faint.

Mosaddegh said he would speak today on a revised resolution the British have submitted calling for new talks. The British withdrew an earlier resolution implying renunciation of Iran.

The statement yesterday, Mosaddegh said, was directed at the earfor resolution.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb said he would have to wait for Mosaddegh's new statement before he could present his final argument.

Jebb said of Mosaddegh's arguments against the Anglo-Iranian Oil company that "some are false, some are exaggerated." He also defended the Iranian's charges that Britain used force against Iran.

A handshake meeting between Jebb and Mosaddegh, arranged by U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie in his office after the session failed to make peace.

Jebb said that if Mosaddegh keeps up his present line of accusations against Britain and the Anglo-Iranian, he will stress their failure.

RASH OF MISFAPS

Warren, Oct. 16 (AP) — There has been a rash of mishaps here in which somebody suffered a bone fracture in one foot. No less than five business and professional people of Warren are wearing casts on one foot. They include: Mrs. Harvey Brough, Rev. Frazer, Police Chief W. F. Lyon, Earl Reynolds and Robert Reynolds.

The parliament approved such legislation last night. Egypt also turned down a five power Middle East defense pact in which she would have shared the job of defending the vital canal with Britain, the United States, France and Turkey.

Britain has stated repeatedly she will stand firm in Egypt and the Sudan. Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said last week British troops would defend their efforts with force if attacked.

In Washington American officials indicated the United States would support Britain's efforts to keep her troops in the Suez area. They indicated also that the Western powers would continue their efforts to create the proposed Middle East defense command.

Britain's alliance with Egypt allowed her to keep up to 10,000 troops and a 400-plane air force strong along the canal. The Egyptians detect the presence of this force on British soil. The British have about 1,600 troops in the Sudan. The Egyptians have a like number in the British-held joint force there.

Other British forces are standing by in Cyprus, Malta and Aden ready for rapid movement should they be needed in the Suez or Sudan.

in treasury income to $5,732,000,000 figure.

For the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, the increase was estimated at $2,763,000,000, several billions shy of the amount which treasury officials say will be required to balance the budget.

The individual income tax boosts are to take effect Nov. 1, when the withholding tax begins to take a bigger bite out of wage and salary checks. The excise increases, affecting whisky, beer, cigarettes, gasoline, automobiles and a number of other items, also are to go into effect the first of next month provided Mr. Truman signs the bill by Sunday.

An increase of five percentage points in the regular corporation tax rates is to be retroactive to last April 1, although another provision, making a greater part of corporate earnings subject to the excess profits tax will not go into action until Jan. 1, 1952.

The increase for most individual income taxpayers will be close to 113 1/4 per cent above present taxes, over a full year's operation. Since the increase is to be effective for only the last two months of this year, 1951 tax obligations will be about 2 per cent above last year's for most persons.

Trial of Wrecking Train Postponed

Malvern, Oct. 16 (AP) — Trial of Oliver H. Nolan of Ink (Polk county) on a charge of train wrecking has been postponed.

Nolan originally was scheduled to be tried yesterday. The trial was deferred because circuit court is being held at Benton. A new trial date has not been set.

Nolan is accused in connection with the derailment of the Missouri Pacific Texas Eagle here in August. The wreck resulted when the train struck an automobile allegedly abandoned on the tracks by Nolan.

Taft Formally Announces Candidacy

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP) — Senator Taft announced today he is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I am going to run because I believe I can conduct the only kind of a campaign which will elect a Republican to office," the senator told a crowded press conference.

Taft issued three carefully prepared statements to more than 100 newspapermen, photographers and others who filled the large conference room used by Republican senators.

The longest statement said he would enter the Wisconsin presidential primary and also accept the bid of Ohio delegates to the nominating convention next year.

Senator Bricker, Taft's Republican colleague from Ohio, said the announcement would give him a definite advantage.

Ready to take issue with Taft's supporters on that point was Senator Dwight D. Eisenhower, who so far has kept public silent on whether he will seek the GOP nomination next year.

But his supporters say they have no doubt he will be available and will make his announcement when he completes his indefinite assignment as supreme commander of the North Atlantic defense forces in Europe.

No other candidate of either major party has thrown his hat in the 1952 presidential ring. The Democrats are expected to remain silent until President Truman makes known his decision.

Taft today announced that he would not comment on other possible candidates for the Republican nomination.

He hit at "smearing tactics" of some organizations and singled out in California for "making wholly unjustified attacks on Governor Warren and General Eisenhower."

Both the California Republican governor and Gen. Eisenhower, have been listed as possible rivals of Taft for the GOP nomination.

Taft also announced creation of an informal committee of three political advisers. They are David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, O., John D. M. Hamilton of Philadelphia, former Republican national chairman, and Thomas E. Colegan of Wisconsin.

Taft said he had asked the three to recommend to him an organization setup to keep in touch with the developments in various states.

"I feel confident that I will be nominated and elected," the senator said after explaining in some detail why he was a candidate for a third time.

Taft's three separate statements were (1) his announcement to run, (2) an explanation that he reached his decision after talking to Republican leaders throughout the nation, and (3) a brief outline of how he will conduct his campaign no mudslinging, but with emphasis on why the country needs a Republic to replace the present administration.

Taft came up to his decision fortified by a report from his close political advisers that he is "the overwhelming and obvious choice" for the GOP nomination.

The report, made public last week, was based on a cross country sentiment-sounding survey conducted for him by Davis & Ingalls of Cleveland and Ben Tate of Cincinnati.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said in a Chicago speech last night that if the Ohioan is nominated "he will go down in defeat."

Taft appeared to be in the mood of a man ready and willing to take the stump in tellus Michigan Republicans last night that next year's presidential election will be the most crucial "in our times."

In a speech to 1,000 persons at a $100 a plate dinner in Detroit, Taft said the Truman administration has "no intelligent program" to halt the spread of communism, and that it is making an effort with plans that change from day to day.

The Ohioan told a founders day banquet of the Michigan Republican party that election of a Republican president "alone offers hope and leadership."

Correspondents were briefed on the importance of security.

The supreme commander plans to climb into a helicopter and fly to the 45,000-ton carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt for a firsthand look at carrier operations. Thursday, when the maneuvers end, a carrier plane will take him back to his headquarters in France.

Naval officers emphasize the importance of the Mediterranean-based sixth fleet in Eisenhower's plans to defend Europe. A long shoreline offers sensitive targets to sea bombardment and planes taking off from carriers in the Mediterranean could fly as far as northern France or deep into Austria to strike at any aggressor.

Lion May Have New Oil Field

El Dorado, Oct. 16 (AP) — The Lion Oil Co. of El Dorado may have discovered a new oil field.

T. M. Martin, president of the firm, announced yesterday that Lion Oil had brought in a new wildcat producer at 6,380 feet in Franklin County, Miss.

Named the Thomas no. one, the well is producing 180 barrels a day by a natural flow on a 13 1/4-inch choke.

Hurricane Danger Appears Ended

Miami, Fla., Oct. 16 (AP) — The weather bureau reported all danger of a hurricane in Florida at an end today as the Caribbean storm degenerated into squalls.

"That one is dead as a storm," said forecasters. "It showed signs of breaking up yesterday, kicked up a bit again late in the day, and died out during the night."

Another hurricane, the 16th of the season, sprang up 400 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla., yesterday and at 2 a. m. today was southeast of Cape Hatteras.

Storm warnings on display from Cape Hatteras to the Virginia capes were expected to be hauled down during the day.

Arkansas Man Finds Money

St. Louis, Oct. 16 (AP) — Defense bonds worth $8,000, representing part of the money an elderly man said he had deposited in a bank in some small town he couldn't recall, were found yesterday on a street in East St. Louis, Ill.

The bonds are to be returned today to Bernhardt Levyson, 74.

About two weeks ago Levyson, a Spanish-American war veteran, sought aid from the St. Louis Trayers Aid Society in returning to his home at Van Buren, Ark.

He told society authorities he had withdrawn about $9,000 in government bonds and about $700 in cash from a Van Buren bank a few days before. He said he then deposited the money in another bank in a small town somewhere in Missouri or Illinois. He couldn't remember where.

The first lead came when an East St. Louis bank official recalled Levyson had been in the bank, but had bought more government bonds instead of depositing what he had.

Police now believe Levyson's bonds and what cash he had were stolen from him and the bonds abandoned when they couldn't be cashed.

The road was dry in 335 accident-prone miles — of them fatal, two hundred seventy-six accidents, 26 of them fatal, occurred in open country.

The summary said that of a total of 382 accidents investigated, 225, of which 24 resulted in fatalities, occurred on straight level roads.

Royal Couple
Given Rest by Small Town

Kapuskasing, Ont., Oct. 16 (AP)—This bush country paper-mill town left the starch out of its rousing welcome to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh last night. Instead, the working-man town officials took the hard-traveling royal visitors to the paper mill, staged an informal party, and gave them plenty of time to get to bed early.

Mayor A. M. Stevenson, foreman of the mill which is Kapuskasing's sole industry, said he realized the visitors needed rest after their crowded program.

Today the couple fly to Winnipeg to begin a 12-day jaunt through the western Canadian prairies and British Columbia.

Kapuskasing's 5,000 population was bolstered for the royal visit by another 20,000 persons. They poured in by train, bus and automobiles from surrounding towns in this northern Ontario bush section just 100 miles southwest of James Bay.

Their loud chant of "we want Elizabeth" brought the heiress to Britain's throne to her hotel balcony for a brief speech. She praised the pioneers who had hewed communities out of this rugged land and expressed regret that she could not visit other frontier towns.

The princess and the duke spent almost an hour and a half touring the paper mill, one of the country's largest newsprint plants. Most of its product goes to papers in the United States. The duke, particularly, was keenly interested in the production process.

At the party, at which she met local officials, the princess was intrigued by the boy ties of some of the guests. The neckwear sported on the wings of pictures of her and the duke.

The princess sipped sherry. The prince sampled a special brandy punch.

Only other item on the schedule was an inspection of Kapuskasing's the ceremony.

If possible the bride will be discharged from Eisenhower's Paris Headquarters, and after a short visit back to the states, she will join her husband in Arabia where they will remain for two years before returning to New York.

IKE'S HOME AWAY FROM HOME—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower stands near the pool that reflects the simple lines of the general's new villa in the Marne-la-Coquette suburb of Paris. Recently redecorated for the Eisenhowers, the house and its surroundings have been planned to help the commander of West European military forces relax.

DOROTHY DIX

Slanderous Gossip

Dear Miss Dix: A few months ago, while my daughter was living away from home but in the same town, an announcement appeared in an out-of-town paper of the marriage of a girl with the same name. A neighbor of ours started the rumor that it was our daughter. She taught him anything, and he was hopelessly spoiled. Now I am having a very difficult time teaching him manners and trying to make him mind me. He talks back and resists any punishment I give him. I never had trouble of this kind with my own children. I don't know whether to leave the house or turn the child back to his grandparents. He likes me, but just won't obey.

M. F.

Answer: If you have witnesses to testify that your neighbor is spreading fibulous tales, and proof that will refute them, you have a good case to take to law. If you do not know lawyer, or feel you can't afford the services of one, the Legal Aid Society in your city will render assistance.

Her Act Inexcusable

Humanity's lowest level is reached by people who have no better use for their time than to spread malicious gossip. Only someone with an infinitely evil mind can use the gift of speech to defame another. The fact that occasionally there may be a modicum of truth behind the lies does not mitigate their baseness, but when the infamy is compounded entirely of falsehoods the instigator is indeed without conscience.

Shakespeare truly said, "Good name in man or woman is the immediate jewel of their souls." One who would either begin, or carry on, a slander to impugn the good name of another is guilty of a crime worse than theft of goods. Material things can be restored, a damaged reputation cannot be repaired.

Answer: No matter how disfavored you get, and I know a student may say that can be a trial, try to keep him with you. You will be a much better influence on him than his grandparents, and when the child is straightened out you will be richly rewarded in the knowledge of a good job done.

I suggest first a thorough physical examination of the boy. Make sure his hearing and sight are good.

Impairment of either sense often leads to behavior problems. Then consult a family counselor or child guidance director. Either may be as you understand, tickets are paid for by the girl, but all other expenses are the boy's. At least that is the usual custom. Any division at your school will, I am sure, be explained by your advisor.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a senior in an all-girl high school. We are having our prom this fall. I'm going steady with a boy and plan to ask him to the prom. I understand that I'm expected to buy the tickets, but am I expected to pay the transportation?

PUZZLED

Answer: Many high schools have adopted the excellent practice of issuing prom leaflets in preparation for this so-important event. The leaflet lists all the obligations of the girl and boy, expenses, proper attire etc. A faculty advisor at your school should be at hand to solve such problems for you. Knowing exactly how to conduct all details of the prom will make the evening much more pleasant for you as well as all the other girls.

As you understand, tickets are paid for by the girl, but all other expenses are the boy's. At least that is the usual custom. Any division at your school will, I am sure, be explained by your advisor.

Ava Not Mentioned in Divorce Suit

Santa Monica, Calif., Oct. 16 (AP)—Frank Sinatra's wife sued him for divorce yesterday, but did not mention Ava Gardner.

Her action followed a pattern set by the Clark Gables. Both Sinatra and Gable have filed suits in Nevada. Their wives are suing in California courts. Nevada decrees will permit the actors to remarry at once. California divorces are not final until a year has passed.

Sinatra is expected to marry Miss Gardner as soon as possible. She was his constant companion while he established six weeks' residence in Nevada prior to his filing in Las Vegas last Sept. 20.

Although Mrs. Sinatra did not mention Miss Gardner, she stated the actress had caused her "griefous mental suffering."

They were married in 1930 and have three children, Nancy, 11, Frank Jr., 7, and Christina, 3. Provision for support was made in a property settlement signed in September, 1950.

Says Southeast to Save Football

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 16 (UPI) -- The President of the Southeastern Conference predicts the conference will "have football" from the date of its inception.

Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, president of Mississippi State College and of the SEC, told the Jackson Touchdown Club here last night.

The problem will come to the group to join in a constructive approach to overemphasis on football and arrive at a solution that will give it as an undergraduate activity.

He said he expects the SEC to begin work on the problem at a meeting in New Orleans next October.

You must not put the blame on the football coach, he said. The public wants a spectacular game, the alumni wants the same thing, and some alumni are even concerned about a winning team.

He said the SEC will study the problem from three angles: The heavy financial drain on school budgets; safeguarding physical and educational well-being of students; and maintaining educational standards of the institutions.

Dodd told today just as he did this time a year ago when Tech's football team lost two games. "Tech's prestige wouldn't fill a thimble," he said. Last year he "couldn't understand why Tech took such a break," printing odds before a game, he said. "If newspapers are allowed to print odds for the benefit of gamblers who infest the fringes of sport, maybe we should check up on that," he said.

But in his angry attempt to expose the truth of Doctor Tobias' record of association with Negro Communists, Mr. White is often a glib orator, making mistakes that he and a "mysterious committee" put Truman up to.

In a "release" for publication Thursday, Sept. 20, White writes: "The President's committee is the result of a meeting during the summer of 1948, when Dr. C. L. Dodd, then president of the Communist International organization at the invitation of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in New York City, to consider methods of exposing and making effective direct public appeal to counter such barbarities as the quadruple lynchings in Walton County, Ga., and the killing of a Negro who was a member of the Communist party but was a member of the Young Communist League.

"By the time I was old enough to be eligible for party membership, I was on my way out," his letter says. "Perhaps this merely proves that the Communist party used to discriminate against minors."

I am not sure that is all it proves but let me not be drawn into a long story. Anyway, the Young Communist League was a member of the Communist International or organization and bore a name similar to the Communist party analogous to the relation of the Hitler Youth to the Nazi party. Several individuals who were members of the Y.C.L. but who professed to have turned away from the Communist movement, have tried to establish a moral and political distinction here. In my judgment, the party and the league were equally devoted to the purposes of the overall international conspiracy.

Mrs. Wechsler's correction is duly presented for the information and judgment of those who read my earlier statements concerning her.

We were given to believe that the President's committee on civil rights was appointed by Truman himself and that the idea originated with him.

We are beginning to get somewhere at last in the investigation of this steady job.

Some kangaroos live in trees and can jump as far as 50 feet to the ground.

Perhaps Yellow Bird struck his head on the ground in falling. Perhaps the fall knocked the wind out of him. At any rate, I clawed my way over his impeding form, seizing the spearhead of the lance before he could recover. As he got his hands under him to come up, I raised the lance blade high over my head, grasping the shortened shaft in both hands.

His head came up, following his body. For one startled second his gaze mirrored the picture he was to take with him to another land.

"Woyonihan," groaned Yellow Bird. "Ifug-un," I answered. "You ran better than I."

"No one ever appreciated me the way you do!" He grinned, and he did.

I locked up at the sound of slogging moccasins. Black Wolf was upon me, his five companions not 200 yards behind him. The Cheyenne was weary. He made a bad lunge. As I rolled over the body of Yellow Bird to escape Black Wolf's lance, I ripped the dead brave's knife from his belt—the same lean Spanish blade I'd used against Black Wolf.

For a second the lance was too much. As I had turned it was to see Yellow Bird's lance-arm sweep far back the razor-bladed weapon speeding toward my back even as I stumbled and fell. The lance whistled through the space where I had been a moment before, shattered itself on an outcropping of granite not three feet from my face. Yellow Bird's momentum of both running and throwing carried him past my falling body; his lance striking my back and side to send him flying over me to smash into the dirt practically on top of me. Had the maneuver been rehearsed I couldn't have sent him sprawling more beautifully.

My pursuer had thrown and missed, colliding with me and gone down in turn, and the lance had been broken in two, leaving three feet of the shaft on the blade-end.

The lance was still unanswered when I hit the bank of the Sweetwater, turned right, scurrying down its edge for a clump of willow and cottonwood. Then, as I staggered up a rise, I saw beyond that grove the stream was backed up by a beaver dam. Perhaps 50 of the animals' stick-and-mud lodges dotted the pond's expanse. Here was my last slim chance. I could not run on. I was done.

New Tax May Smoke Out Bookies

By CHARLES BARRETT
(For James Marlow)

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP)—The nation's 50,000 numbered operators and betting bookmakers are supposed to come out from under in the next two weeks.

They are supposed to walk into internal revenue bureau offices across the country and say, in effect:

“Sure, Bud, I run an illegal gambling business. Here are all the addresses where I operate, and here are the names of all the people who work for me.”

Now if you will take my $10 and give me a federal tax stamp for gambling, I'll go back and post it conspicuously in my joint so everybody can see it.

You think somebody's dreaming?

“No, these are the provisions of the new tax increase bill now in its final stages. It's expected to become law and the gambling tax will go into effect Nov. 1.

The bill imposes a $50 occupational tax on all those who make a business of receiving bets on sports events or operating lotteries or numbers games.

This provision calls for the gamblers to register, get a tax stamp and post it.

Further, each gambling operator is supposed to report the amount of his monthly business and pay a 10 per cent tax on all bets placed with him. Thus, next month, if a bookie takes on $10,000 in horse race bets or a numbers writer sells $10,000 in numbers tickets, he would owe the government $1,000.

But nobody is kidding anybody. The internal revenue bureau, which will administer the wagering tax, isn't expecting to be rushed by gamblers divulging all their secrets.

That brings up the main question—how to enforce a tax on operations that are illegal in every state except Nevada.

The new tax doesn't apply to parimutuel betting at race tracks, which is permitted by 18 states.

Experts in the treasury department and internal revenue bureau have been busseling over this problem for days. They say it has more potential headaches than any new tax provision in years; they don't particularly like the idea but Congress insisted. They are not ready to announce major decisions but here is their general policy:

Regulations will be issued shortly calling on all those covered by the law to register and get their tax stamps. Fines will be imposed for providing the government all the information it wants and for turning in the monthly tax payments.

This formal material will read like a strange mixture of law books and gambling jargon.

Then the government will sit back and wait a short while. The theory is to give everybody a chance to comply willingly—just like the government assumes you will pay your income tax and starts checking after it finds that something is wrong.

Some officials are inclined to count on the chances of really enforcing the law at all. Others aren't so sure.

The more optimistic view recalls that more than 2,000 tax agents already have been assigned to special ticket squads to look into income tax returns of known or suspected tax evaders.

This is the type of investigation that put Al Capone of Chicago behind bars and more recently has involved Gamblers Mickey Cohen and other underworld figures.

The total amount placed in bets on sports events and lotteries has been estimated by the old senate finance committee at $20,000,000,000 a year.

At a flat 10 per cent, that would mean $2,000,000,000 in revenue. The official estimate of income from the new betting tax is only $400,000,000, or 20 per cent of potential.

In writing the new law, Congress made it clear it does not intend to interfere with office football pools (a form of betting or lottery), church bingo parties, Saturday night poker games among friends, or other friendly or social gambling.

The tax applies only to those who make a business of gambling for profit.

The House ways and means committee specifically noted the bill may not affect “draw poker, stud poker and blackjack, roulette games, dice games such as craps, bingo games and the gambling games frequently encountered at country fairs and charity bazaars.”

The committee recognized there would be difficulties in enforcing the gambling tax, but said the internal revenue bureau ought to overcome these with a vigorous system of collecting the tax.

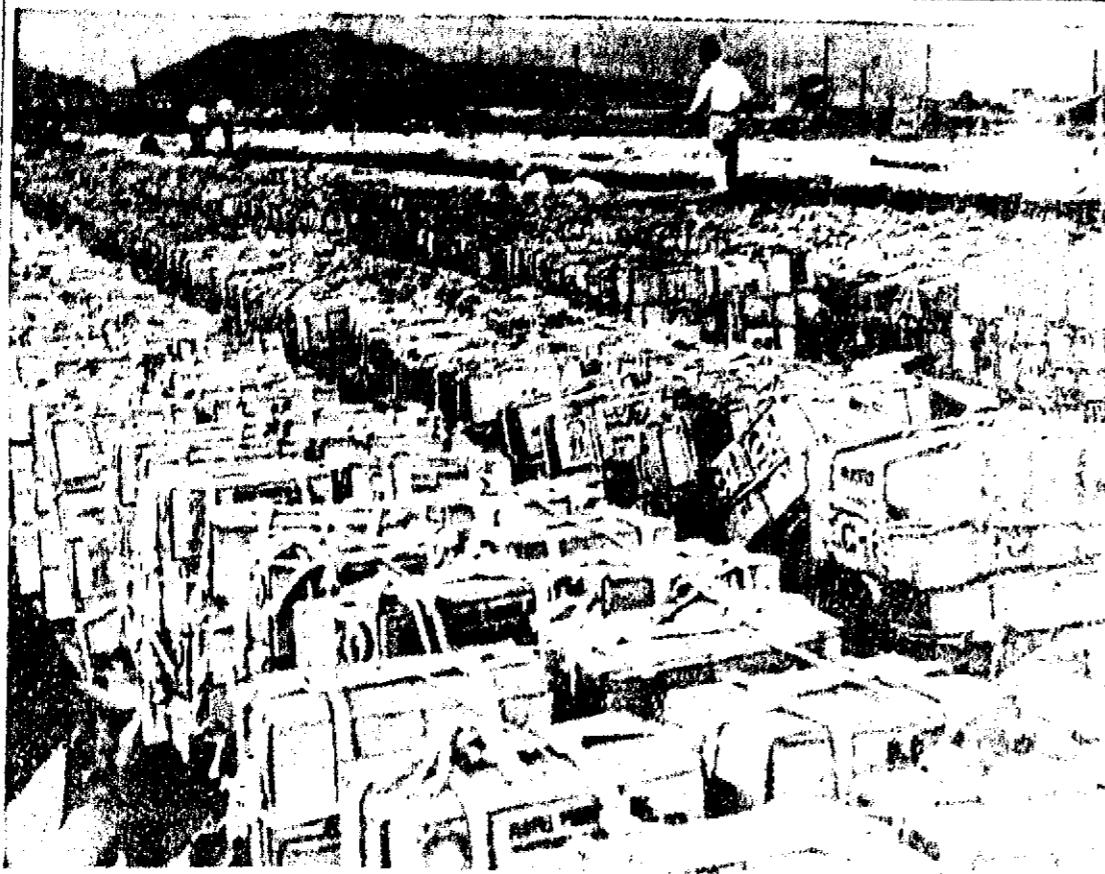

Recruiting Shows to Be Dropped

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Army and air force are dropping three radio shows that got a low viewer rating in Congress.

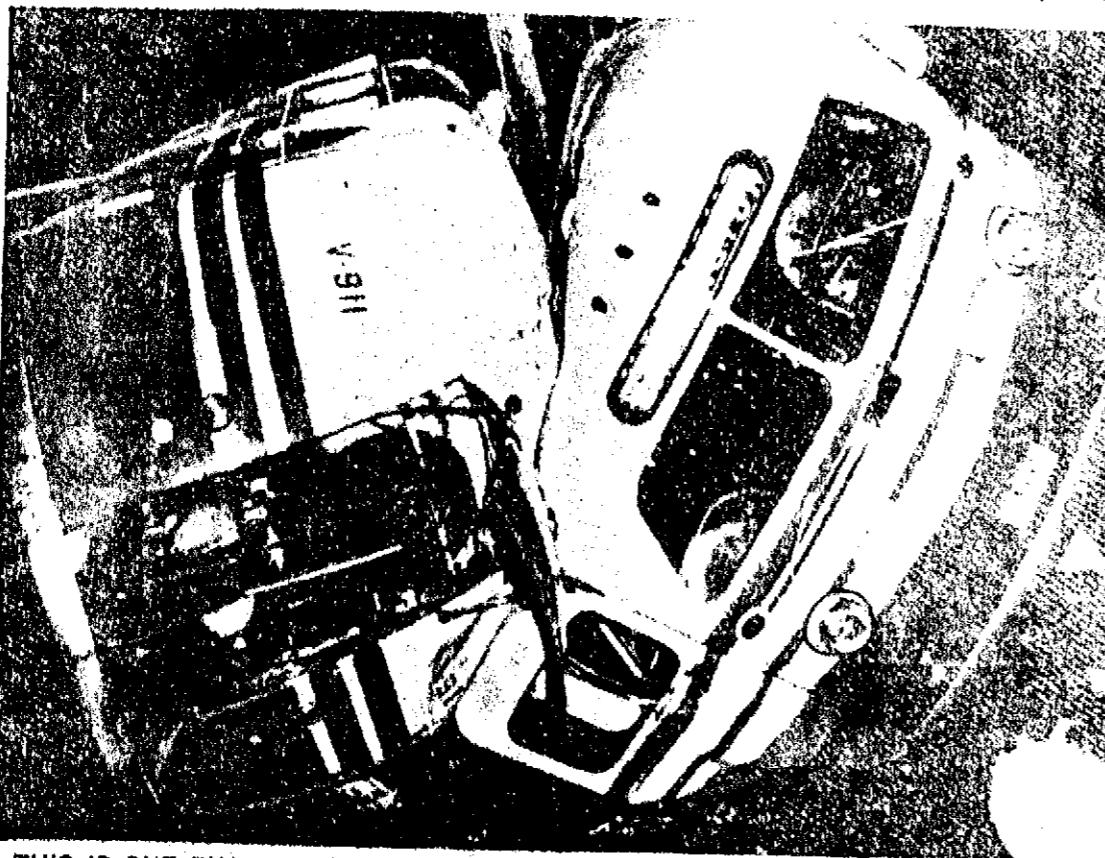

All three were intended to whip up congressional displeasure. They are the Frankie Laine singing show, the Big Star Sportscast and the Game of the Week. The first two were programmed at $685.00. The Game of the Week was rated at $61,000.

The defense department spokesman said last night all three will be discontinued at the most economical cut-off dates.

Present rate of consumption of forms of energy in the world in an entire year is equal to the energy received from the sun in three minutes.

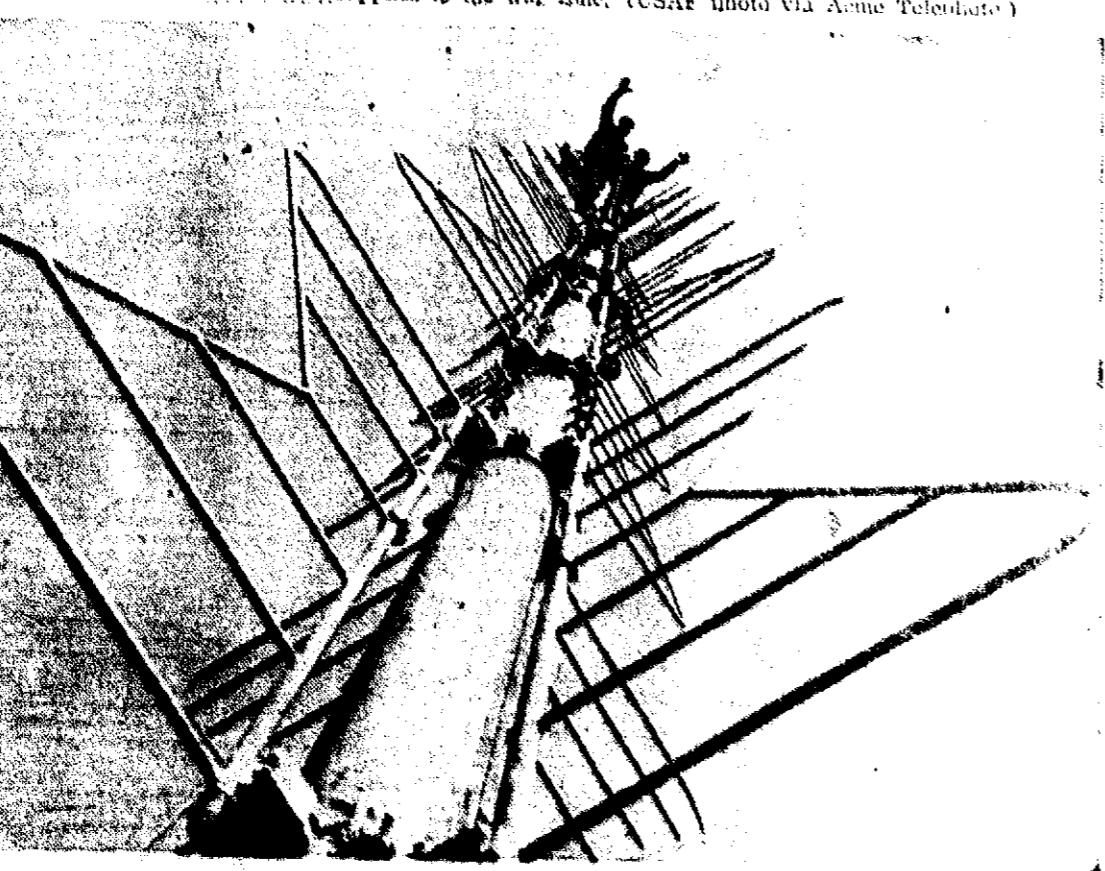

READY FOR AIRLIFT—Combat supplies in vast array await air transport to UN forces in Korea at an airfield base in Japan. Equipment ranging from tiny cartons of medical supplies to massive bulldozers is shipped to Korea by C-119 “Flying Boxcars” of the U. S. Air Force's 313th Troop Carrier Group. Boxes are packed for parachuting to earth in case an emergency landing is required.

THIS IS ONE BUS—This was the aftermath of a spectacular crash of a Washington-bound Trailways bus at Gainesville, Va. THEY'RE DE-ICING A TV TOWER—Riding high—about a quarter-mile—on their job are these workmen on the television mast atop the 103-story Empire State Building in New York City. When not waving to photographers, they're installing a special electronic de-icing system on the 18-story tall TV mast. Thermosytically controlled, the system will keep ice from forming on the tower's transmitting elements and knocking out TV stations on the air.

Youths Blamed With Fire That Burned Records

Little Rock, Oct. 16 (AP)—A grass fire started by two young boys is believed to have caused the blaze that destroyed about half a warehouse occupied by the state in North Little Rock.

State Fire Marshal Walter McAlvey was checking in the angle lot. He said he had talked to the young age 10 and 11, who admitted starting the grass fire. McAlvey said the youngsters were playing with a lighted candle for a few minutes before the blaze swept through the warehouse Sunday. Several ticks of dynamite, surplus food, allotted to the state for distribution to schools and institutions, were destroyed.

Meanwhile, McAlvey said the FBI had been asked to investigate the fire because the food was federal government property.

Records of State Purchasing Agent Carl Parker also were destroyed in the fire. His office was in a section of the building.

Catholics Meet to Honor Bishop

Little Rock, Oct. 16 (AP)—High dignitaries of the Catholic church gathered in Little Rock today to honor the Bishop John B. Morris of Arkansas.

Heading the group was Samuel Cardinal Stritch, who was to dedicate a $10,000 chapel at St. John's seminary constructed in memory of Bishop Morris. The edifice is the chapel of St. John the Baptist.

About 20 other bishops and archbishops from over the South, Southwest and Middle West were to attend the induction ceremony.

Cardinal Stritch, the 6-year-old archbishop of Chicago, spoke at the convocation of the diocesan council of Catholic women last night.

The cardinal urged Catholics in the south to continue working toward the growth of the church.

The church in the Southland is said to be keen on growing, keep on working,” said Cardinal Stritch, “but someday it no longer will be a threat to Catholic mission but will instead be sending missions of its own to other lands.”

A holy enthusiasm is needed by those who would work for Christ, added Cardinal Stritch. “You have to lose yourself to have yourself.”

Girl Withdraws Charge at Malvern

Malvern, Oct. 16 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl has withdrawn a charge that the former superintendent of the Glen Rose High school is the father of her unborn child.

Prosecutor Joe McCoy said yesterday the girl made the statement in the absence of her father, a welfare worker and an attorney representing Doyle Henson, 40.

McCoy said he would ask dismissal of a paternity suit against Henson. The prosecutor filed the lawsuit last month on the basis of the girl's charge that Henson was intimate with her on four different occasions while she was attending school.

Henson, who was not available for comment, was dismissed from his post soon after the girl made the charge.

Alyce Holtear, president of the Glen Rose school board, said the charge was the principal reason Henson was dismissed. A replacement for Henson has been hired.

Holtear said he did not know whether the board would take further action in view of the latest development.

The girl now is in a Little Rock hospital.

Judge Rules on Power Service

Little Rock, Oct. 16 (AP)—Pulaski Circuit Judge Guy Amster has ruled that an electric power franchise with a municipality entitles the holder to provide service to areas annexed by the city.

This condition holds, true, said Amster, even though the added area, prior to annexation, was served by another utility.

Amster's ruling yesterday reversed the Arkansas public service commission's dismissal of a case involving the Arkansas Power and Light Co. of the Pinhook Shoe Corp., of Marion county.

The shoe firm, which subsequently has abandoned its Newport operations and AP&L sought PSC authority for the utility to supply power to an area annexed by the city of Newport in 1946. The company's plant was in the annexed territory.

The area, prior to annexation, was served by the Farmers Electric Cooperative.

The PSC ruled that AP&L could not supply electrical energy to the area. The case was then taken to court.

Weather Is Holding Up Atom Tests

Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 16 (AP)—Weather is the main factor holding up “Exercise Desert Rock,” the joint atomic energy commission and army operation designed to test troops under atomic fire.

While climatic conditions appeared perfect to the average observer at this desert spa, AEC officials decided they were not ready to begin blasting today.

Test Manager Carroll L. Tyler told a news conference last night that “we have to avoid lows or temperatures inversions, and winds must in general be upward.”

This, it was understood, is to reduce ground radioactivity for the 5,000 soldiers and scores of AEC workers involved.

Tyler and Dr. Alvin C. Graves, scientific director, declined to compare the upcoming series with the recent tests on Eniwetok as to size and intensity. But Dr. Graves made these points: (1) the test site here is closer to habitations; and (2) the AEC has learned a lot about detonation power and perhaps how to control it.
